

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation. I was appalled last year when you granted the right for media to control more television, radio, and newspapers in a geographic area. Airing an anti-Kerry propaganda movie in the last 2 weeks of a very close election is an outrageous abuse of their privilege of using the public airwaves without charge. If the media is not able to be free of being a mouth piece of political interests that the media is giving financial support to, then our democracy is dead.
